

Secure Our World. Advance Your Career.

Dr. Daniel L. Byman,
SSP Director. Terrorism
expert. Author of *The Five
Front War: A Better Way to Fight Global Jihad*.
Senior Fellow, The Saban
Center at the Brookings Institution. Former Professional Staff Member with the 9/11 Commission.

Join the World's Premier Security Studies Program

The Security of China, Terrorism/Counterterrorism, Nuclear Weapons Programs—just three of more than 70 courses in the Security Studies Program (SSP) at Georgetown University.

The oldest, most respected graduate program of its kind,
the SSP offers unparalleled curriculum breadth and an unrivaled faculty of leading authorities.

We connect our students to the latest developments and most influential players in Washington. Over the past five years, more than 90% of graduates received job offers within three months of completing the SSP masters degree.

Strengthen world security and enhance your career.
Georgetown University's Security Studies Program is your best choice.

To learn more, visit <http://ssp.georgetown.edu>
or call 202-687-5733.

Full- and part-time enrollment available.

CENTER for PEACE and SECURITY STUDIES
Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service
Georgetown University • Washington, DC

Georgetown's Security Studies Program 30 Years Experience Educating

Why the SSP?

Georgetown University's Security Studies Program (SSP) has 30 years experience educating future national and international security professionals and is the nation's largest program devoted to graduate education in security studies.

The SSP is one of six masters programs in Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service (SFS). SSP students have access to the School's centers, institutes, and events, offering opportunities for intellectual growth and professional networking.

Located in Washington, DC, SSP students are exposed to the center of U.S. security policymaking.

The SSP combines the best of both worlds—academic rigor and policy relevance.

Areas of Study

Beginning in August 2008 the SSP curriculum will offer the following concentrations:

- » Intelligence
- » Military Operations
- » Science and Technology
- » Terrorism and Substate Violence
- » Unconventional Weapons and Non-Proliferation
- » U.S. National Security

SSP students can take advantage of the School of Foreign Service's many course offerings. Certificate programs are available in:

- » Arab Studies
- » Eurasian, Russian and East European Studies
- » International Business Diplomacy
- » Refugees and Humanitarian Assistance

In addition, the SSP offers joint degree programs with Georgetown University's Department of Government (M.A./Ph.D.) and the Georgetown University Law Center (M.A./J.D.).

CENTER for PEACE and SECURITY STUDIES
Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service
Georgetown University

Program: Security Professionals

Faculty

Leading academics and practitioners with unsurpassed security credentials teach SSP courses. The prestigious faculty enrich classroom instruction and discussion by sharing their experiences as security professionals. The result is a program that combines the best of both worlds—academic rigor and policy relevance.

Select SSP Core Faculty

Dr. Daniel L. Byman
Dr. Bruce Hoffman
Dr. Paul Pillar
Dr. Jennifer Sims

<http://ssp.georgetown.edu/core1.html>

Select SSP Adjunct Faculty

Amb. Avis Bohlen
Dr. Nora Bensahel
Dr. Charles D. Ferguson
Dr. Kenneth Pollack

<http://ssp.georgetown.edu/adjunct.html>

Careers

A graduate degree from the SSP is a valuable professional asset. In fact, over the last five years more than 90% of SSP students received job offers within three months of graduation. Mid-career graduates report receiving promotions and new professional opportunities after graduation.

Where do SSP graduates work?

U.S. Federal Government

Central Intelligence Agency
Department of Defense
Department of State

Private Sector

Booz Allen Hamilton, Inc
MITRE Corporation
The Cohen Group

Non-Profit/Think Tank

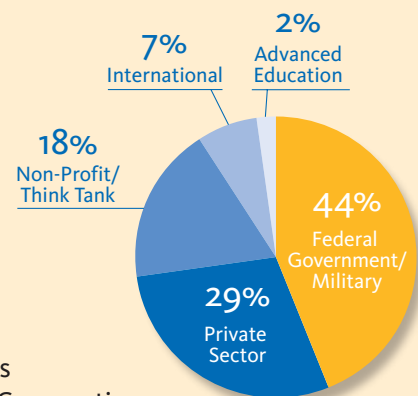

Council on Foreign Relations
Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development
United States Institute of Peace

U.S. Military

All branches

International

Colombian Ministry of Defense
Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs
National Security Directorate of Afghanistan

Admissions

The SSP accepts applications for both fall and spring semesters. Deadlines are November 2, 2007 for spring 2008 and January 15, 2008 for fall 2008. Merit based financial aid is available for both semesters. For admissions information and application instructions visit: <http://ssp.georgetown.edu/admissions.html>.

The Center for Peace and Security Studies (CPASS), within Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service, is dedicated to examining the full range of political, economic, historical, cultural, and technological factors that influence global peace and security. The Center brings together the academic and policy worlds through its Security Studies Program (SSP), Women In International Security (WIIS), policy discussions, and research.

Visit our website at <http://cpass.georgetown.edu> to learn more about the Center for Peace and Security Studies within Georgetown University's Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service.

CENTER for PEACE and SECURITY STUDIES
Edmund A. Walsh School of Foreign Service
Georgetown University

3600 N Street, NW
Washington, DC 20007
202-687-7981
cpass@georgetown.edu
<http://cpass.georgetown.edu>